LOS ANGELES, Calif. Wednesday, March 24th - Fairmont Century Plaza today reveals that Birdie G's, the acclaimed concept from Chef Jeremy Fox, will debut in Summer 2026 at the landmark Century City hotel. The newly imagined Birdie G's, designed in partnership with EDG Design, will bring its signature creativity and spirit to Century City, ushering in a dynamic new culinary chapter at Fairmont Century Plaza. During its six-year run, Birdie G's became a beloved fixture of the Los Angeles dining scene, earning critical praise and cultivating a devoted following. The opening builds on Fairmont Century Plaza's long-standing role as a gathering place for Los Angeles, where the city comes together over dining, conversation, and celebration.

Named for Chef Jeremy's daughter Birdie and his grandmother Gladys, Birdie G's is known for its nostalgic yet inventive approach to American comfort cuisine rooted in family tradition, regional flavors, and meticulous craftsmanship. A Food & Wine Best New Chef and widely respected voice in California's produce-driven cooking movement, Fox originally opened the restaurant in 2019 at Bergamot Station. The restaurant blended Midwestern influences with California seasonality, earning consistent recognition on the Los Angeles Times 101 Best Restaurants list. Following its closure at the end of 2025, Birdie G's - already widely missed - now finds a new home at Fairmont Century Plaza, where it will take on its most expansive and ambitious expression yet. Lumière, the hotel's current restaurant, will close in March to begin renovations ahead of Birdie G's debut.

"As we celebrate nearly six decades of history at Fairmont Century Plaza, we are proud to welcome Birdie G's as the new cornerstone of the hotel's dining program," said Hiren Prabhakar, General Manager of Fairmont Century Plaza. "Century Plaza has always been defined by great dining as well as great events, and Birdie G's honors that heritage while bringing renewed energy to the heart of the hotel."

"Birdie G's has always been about capturing the feeling of a classic American restaurant through the lens of memory and craft," said Chef Jeremy Fox. "At Fairmont Century Plaza, we're expanding that vision into a true all-day experience—from early-morning coffee to celebratory dinners—while staying rooted in the comfort and creativity that define the restaurant."

Breakfast Through Dinner

Birdie G's at Fairmont Century Plaza will introduce breakfast, lunch, brunch, and dinner service, offering a full spectrum of elevated yet nostalgic cuisine throughout the day, framed through the lens of a modern American brasserie.

Breakfast will feature familiar classics alongside specialty coffees and house-made pastries, incorporating nostalgic delicatessen influences. Designed to serve both hotel guests and early business meetings, the morning menu offers the added flexibility of select grab-and-go options for breakfast on the run. Lunch will unfold in two distinct expressions, offering both a polished yet efficient midday experience and an elevated executive lunch inspired by the historic power lunch culture of Century City.

Weekend brunch will lean into abundance and celebration with dishes meant to be shared and savored. Dinner guests will choose from an elegant display of steaks, chops, birds, and fish prepared with Chef Jeremy Fox's distinctly inspired innovation, alongside handmade pastas and seasonal vegetable dishes that celebrate California's micro seasons.

Fans of Birdie G's can expect the return of some of its most celebrated dishes, including the aromatic matzo ball soup, the beloved Pickle Chick cutlet, the signature rose petal pie, and Chef Jeremy Fox's deeply flavorful koji-aged steaks, alongside new additions developed exclusively for Fairmont Century Plaza. Prioritizing seasonal ingredients sourced from local farmers, ranchers, and fishers will define the culinary ethos of the restaurant, along with a disciplined approach to minimizing waste.

Elevated Libations

The cocktail program will balance nostalgic classics with modern interpretations, anchored by house-made infusions and seasonal ingredients. This dynamically curated list will spotlight expertly executed martinis and Manhattans alongside inventive seasonal creations.

The wine list will highlight both classic and emerging regions, focusing on chemical free vineyards and sustainable winemaking and farming practices, complemented by craft beers and a thoughtful selection of non-alcoholic offerings.

Designed for Century City

In collaboration with EDG Design, the reimagined restaurant will honor the architectural and cultural legacy of Fairmont Century Plaza while introducing a distinctly American brasserie aesthetic. Inspired by mid-century business culture and classic supper clubs, warm tones, comfortable banquette seating and expanded patio dining will greet diners.

The announcement arrives as Fairmont Century Plaza approaches its 60th anniversary, marking six decades at the crossroads of history and Hollywood. From Grammy celebrations to presidential gatherings, the landmark hotel continues to evolve while honoring its storied past.

Additional details, including reservation information and opening programming, will be announced in the weeks leading up to Birdie G's debut.
